

No Decisions By GOP Until Truman Talks To Congress

Washington, July 26 (AP) — The Republican high command decided today to make no decisions on a legislative program until President Truman puts his extra session recommendations before Congress tomorrow.

House Speaker Martin (Mass.) told newsmen after a meeting of Senate and House leaders that "no decisions were made." Martin added: "We want to hear what the president has to say tomorrow before making our minds up definitely. Like the boys at Bunker Hill, we are not going to fire until we see the whites of their eyes."

Truman Busy On Message
Martin then walked into the House chamber and rapped to order the session summoned by Mr. Truman in the midst of the 1948 presidential and congressional campaigns.

At the White House, Mr. Truman continued work on the message he first outlined to the Democratic National convention. Democratic congressional leaders were called in to review the price control and other proposals scheduled for inclusion.

The meeting of the Republican chiefs, held in Martin's office, was attended by Senators Taft (Ohio), Vandenberg (Mich.), Wherry (Neb.), and Millikin (Colo.), and Reps. Halleck (Ind.), Brown (Ohio), and Auer (Ill.). It lasted almost an hour and a half.

Martin called it "A preliminary meeting for general discussion." He said there will be another get-together after Mr. Truman reads his message to a joint session tomorrow.

Senator Barkley (Ky.), Senate minority leader and Mr. Truman's vice-presidential running mate, headed the group of Democratic leaders invited to the White House.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross said Mr. Truman would go over his message and discuss his legislative recommendations with the group. These recommendations include anti-inflation, housing, civil rights, and other bills which Mr. Truman said he was calling Congress back to consider.

SAY WAR BRIDE SOUGHT MONEY

That Mrs. Charles A. Harman, Hanover R. 3, married her husband while he was in service for his family allotment only is charged in a supplemental report in the divorce action of Charles A. In papers filed with the county prothonotary, Yake, in recommending the divorce on grounds of desertion, points out "It may be significant to note that the respondent apparently on numerous occasions has remarked to her friends that she married the libellant only for his army allotment."

According to testimony contained in the master's report, she refused to live with Harman after his return from service, told him frequently she wanted nothing to do with him, and finally put his clothing and furniture out in the yard—about three months after his return—as a final gesture that she did not want him to live with her.

BOSTON RED SOX TAKE LOOP LEAD AS TRIBE LOSES

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Joe McCarthy's blazing Boston Red Sox were riding herd on the American league today after achieving a baseball feat almost equal to that of the Boston Braves' wonder team of 1914.

The Red Sox yesterday climaxed a sensational seven-week surge from a dismal seventh to first place—giving Boston teams the leadership in both major leagues.

The Sox wrestled the No. 1 berth from the Philadelphia Athletics by defeating the Cleveland Indians, 3-0, for their 12th straight victory. Meanwhile, the Athletics divided a doubleheader with the Detroit Tigers.

Take Three-Game Series

The ride from 10 games back to the top was reminiscent of George Stallings' miracle Braves of 34 years ago who jumped from the cellar on July 4 to capture the National league flag.

Joe Dobson, veteran curveballing right-hander, gained the honor of pitching the Sox into first place. He scattered six hits to chalk up his 13th triumph.

Boston wasted little time in clinching the win of the three-game series with the Tribe, scoring twice against Steve Gromek in the first inning on a double by Johnny Pesky, a walk to Ted Williams and a triple by Bobby Doerr to deep right center. The Red Sox scored their final run in the seventh when Dom DiMaggio clouted a home run off Satchel Paige.

Two Homers For Joe

Fred Hutchinson eased the A's out of the lead by pitching the Tigers to a second game 10-2 triumph over Philadelphia and a split in their doubleheader. Joe Coleman had blanked the Tigers, 4-0, with seven hits in the opener.

Joe DiMaggio cracked out two home runs, a double and three singles in seven times at bat to lead the New York Yankees to a double triumph over the Chicago White Sox 5-3 and 7-3. The sweep of the twin bill advanced the fourth place Yankees to within two percentage points of the Indians. Both of Joe's homers, his 22nd and 23rd, came in the second game. Ed Lopat gained his seventh straight victory in the opener, and Vic Raschi won his 12th against four defeats in the nightcap.

Washington and the St. Louis Browns divided a doubleheader, the Senators winning the first game 5-1, and the Browns taking the second, 6-4 in 11 innings. Rae Scarborough scattered seven hits and drove in three runs with a bases loaded double to gain his eighth triumph in the opener.

The pace-setting Boston Braves retained their five-game margin in the National league by gaining a split in their bill with the Cardinals in St. Louis. The Cards had come from behind with two runs in the bottom of the ninth to win the opener 6-5. They also led 6-4 after eight innings of the nightcap, but ninth inning home runs by Bob Elliott and Jeff Heath, the former with two on, gave the Braves an 8-6 victory.

Danny Murtaugh's grand slam home run in the eighth inning gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 7-4 second game victory and a split in their doubleheader with the second place Brooklyn Dodgers. The Brooks won the opener, 6-5, coming up with four runs in the eighth and staving off a Pirate rally in the ninth. Jackie Robinson's steal of home provided the deciding tally.

Cincinnati slugged out a pair of decisions over the Philadelphia Phils, 11-8 and 9-2, to advance within a game and a half of the sixth place Phils. Hank Sauer slammed his 27th home run in the opener to the Ralph Kiner of Pittsburgh for the league lead.

The Chicago Cubs spotted the New York Giants a 3-0 lead then came from behind to defeat Leo Durocher's men 6-3. Eddie Wattus' inside-the-park home run with two on was the telling blow.

Eastern League

(By The Associated Press)

The Utica Blue Sox beat yesterday the Scranton Miners twice to climb into the Eastern league leadership.

The Blue Sox moved a half game ahead of the Miners by virtue of 4-2 and 4-3 victories before 5,650 fans at Scranton.

Meanwhile the third-place Albany Senators drubbed the Elmira Pioneers, 7-6 and 3-1. The Binghamton Triplets also captured a twin bill, edging the Wilkes-Barre Barons, 10-9 and 9-7. The Hartford Chiefs and Williamsport Tigers split. Williamsport blanked the Chiefs, 2-0, in the nightcap, after Hartford took the curtain raiser, 7-3.

Gettysburg's Legion team of the Adams County Baseball league forfeited another tilt on Saturday at McSherrystown due to being unable to field a team and as a result Dorsey Rebert, general manager of the team, announced the team has dropped from the loop. A meeting is expected to be held by the league in the near future to discuss the new development.

Orrtanna's 3-2 victory over Bendersville in 17 innings at Orrtanna featured Saturday's games which resulted in victories for all first division team. The game was by far the best of the season and rates with one of the longest games ever played in this section.

Ronnie Baltzley and N. Slaybaugh were in superb form as they hooked up in a beautiful hurler's duel. Baltzley went the distance while Slaybaugh retired with one out in the 17th in favor of Fidler.

Orrtanna scored in the third on a single by Herring, J. Wetzel and Baltzley. Bendersville knotted the count in the sixth on hits by Bucher, Baumgardner and Kuntz. Bendersville went ahead in the 14th on a single by Walters, a base on balls, and a single by Black. The Orrtanna team came right back to tie the count again on a double by Baltzley and single by Leroy Wetzel. With one out in the 17th Johnny Wetzel, who poled six of his team's 12 hits, singled. Baltzley beat out a bunt and K. Singley was purposely passed. Leroy Wetzel then singled to score J. Wetzel.

Behind the two-hit hurling of Schwartz, Littlestown blanked Fairfield 4-0 at Fairfield. Three runs in the fourth inning sewed up the decision for Littlestown.

New Oxford pushed over six runs in the first two frames and went on to gain an 8-2 victory over York Springs at New Oxford. Sponseller and Staub formed the winning battery while Bricker and Kennedy worked for York Springs.

Hanover remained but half a game behind the league-leading Orrtanna team by scoring a 9-15 decision over Emmitsburg in a game played at Hanover.

SEVENTY FIVE YEARS AGO
Military Visitors: The Harrisburg City Greys, accompanied by their fine band, visited Gettysburg recently, arriving on Thursday in the noon-train. Forming in line at the depot, they marched through several of the streets to the "Eagle Hotel," where quarters had been engaged. The afternoon and evening were occupied in visiting different portions of the battle-field, in carriages. Friday morning the Greys turned out in full military dress for an excursion and target firing on Culp's Hill. At one o'clock they took the cars for Harrisburg. The marching and military maneuvering were very creditable, showing an ease and precision which indicated excellent drill.

The Band also attracted a good deal of attention and much commendation, being regarded by judges in such matters as one of the best that has visited Gettysburg for years. On Thursday night the Band serenaded the editors being complimented among others.

Baltimore, July 25.—About 10:30 o'clock this morning a fire broke out in the extensive four-story brick steam-planing mill, sash and door factory, owned and occupied by Joseph Thomas and Son, situated on the south side of Clay street, near Park.

Today's Talk

INTERESTS
I am convinced a man begins the downward grade the moment that nothing interests him any more. We are kept alive by these interests, so that when they die down we start to die. The secret is to keep a fire under our interests so that they may never give us a chill.

A man is a better shop keeper, professional man, or what-not, if he will but cultivate one or more interests outside those that take most of his time and which furnish him with his major income. I was amazed to learn that an old advertising friend of mine, who early gained distinction as a copy writer, took to the hobby of painting, and he showed me some excellent examples. He told me that this was his outside joy, that he painted to give himself inward pleasure, and in turn to be complimented by a few friends who accepted some of the paintings as gifts.

None of us can have too many interests, just so long as at least one of them is sufficient to sail our frail craft safely through the troubled waters of life. Interests should always stir us, inspire us, and help to make us more creative. It is so important to keep the machinery of the mind in good order—and a multitude of interests do exactly this. That's what makes youth so delightful and thrilling. There is an age of wonder, of speculation, and new interests every day. As we drop our earlier interests we drop that much out of our youth. You see interests, or hobbies, if you want to think of them as such, keep putting one on one's mettle. They keep one in a state of expectation, which is always a healthy state in which to be.

Stevenson once wrote that "it is always better policy to learn an interest than to make a thousand pounds." He also referred to an interest as "imperishable and ever new." Only the collector himself can express the joy that his pursuit creates. Only as a treasure discoverer can he aptly describe himself. And how often has he helped to enrich the world, as well, by his persistent search, and often through great personal sacrifice!

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Guest Book of the Past."

MUMPS
Never, it seems, can my battered heart be,
From something or other to fret about, free,
With one worry over, another comes on.
A joy that's enduring is granted to none.
From the crest of delight I am flung in the dumps;
Now Ellen Elizabeth's down with the mumps.

I ought to be merry with grand-children four.
You'd think with such treasures my troubles were o'er,
But it seems every bliss is attended with woe,
And heartache is something we're destined to know.
On her neck, left and right, there are two agly lumps;
Now Ellen Elizabeth's down with the mumps.

Since childhood with various ills is beset,
Always one or the other some sickness will get.
It isn't the measles that puts one to bed,
The chicken pox comes, with the spots flaming red,
And why this has to be, every grandfather stumps.
Now Ellen Elizabeth's down with the mumps.

soon on the ground playing on the fire. A stiff breeze from the southwest was blowing, and owing to the heat and dryness, the flames soon communicated with adjoining buildings on each side. A general alarm was sounded, calling on the entire department.

About 11 a. m., a general conflagration seemed imminent and the greatest consternation prevailed. The streets were almost impassable from the blocking of furniture wagons and every kind of vehicle that could be brought into requisition. The dome of the Cathedral was covered with blankets, and thus saved, as was also St. Alphonsus' church.

The firemen, driven from Park street between Lexington and Saratoga, by the intense heat, abandoned this section to its fate and directed their main efforts to preventing the spread of the fire beyond the four blocks. Shortly after 2 p. m., two engines arrived from Washington and rendered valuable assistance. The fire raged until nearly 3 p. m., but by 4 was completely under control.

Animal Accidents Are Costly
Approximately 70 million pounds of meat was lost last year between our farm gates and market. Of this stupendous total around 50 million pounds consisted of bruised and otherwise damaged carcasses. The other 20 million pounds was made up of animals dead or seriously crippled on their arrival at slaughterhouses. Seventy million pounds of meat! Around 25 million dollars lost from our farmers' pockets and a literal mountain of food denied a hungry world.

To touch this loss in more comprehensible form, it amounts to 700 pounds of meat to every man, woman and child in a city of 100,000 population. It represents a loss of between 4 to 6 million bushels of grain consumed by those animals. In terms of hogs dressing 175 pounds each, it consists of a line of animals side by side (2 feet to each hog) reaching over 150 miles.

The National Livestock Loss Prevention Board, from which these statistics are cited, agrees that not all accidents to meat animals on their way to market can be prevented. But they warn that certain careless practices are inexcusable. About half the bruising occurs on farms and in loading equipment. Nails, sharp corners on chutes and loading fences, faulty runways and similar sources of danger are pointed out. Among suggestions offered for reducing these preventable injuries are: Sanding truck and car floors and loading runways, canvas slappers instead of clubs for driving animals, slow loading, good separations in mixed loads, careful driving of trucks on hills and at turns or corners, and frequent inspection of loads.

Of course, loss estimates pertain to meat only. No estimate is made for lower prices received for hides punctured by nails or bruised so badly that portions are unsuitable for leather manufacture. And it should be observed that a majority of injuries to hides would likely occur in those portions which include the most valuable parts of the skin.

The human factor, according to the board's findings, is responsible for a great portion of the huge loss. In this it can be assumed that the typical American fault of "hurry" is the main contributing factor, shouting, crowding, rushing the animals onto trucks and into cars, rushing them to market with such fury that 70 million pounds of meat is lost in a single year. Here is a drain from the farm purse which cannot with lucidity be attributed to unfavorable economics or appealed to "government" for relief.

That the matter of "hurry" is justly blamed is seen in the fact that loss rates increased during the war and then began to decline after the war ended and farmers drifted back into a more leisurely pattern of life. But with the augmented impetus of rising prices occasioned by increased shipments of meat abroad under relief policies the loss rate soared again throughout 1947.

Packing houses, railroads and apparently everybody from the farm gate to the corner meat shop is eager to join in a campaign to curtail this burdensome loss. It seems that the next move is up to the American farmer.

LATE PLANTING IN GARDENS IS WIDELY URGED

Reduced acreages plus an unfavorable growing season, resulting in high prices for most vegetables, add up to late planting in well conducted home gardens to keep them productive to the first killing frost. When one scans present prices and future supplies, and bends an ear to the beating of war drums, it takes little imagination to realize that food production and food preservation rank first on the gardener's list of activities.

Too many garden makers at this season either surrender to sultry summer weather, plant insects and disease, or else decide that the planting season is finished. A good look at the weather calendar reveals that the normal date of the first killing frost in the vicinity is not earlier than Oct. 15.

This means that, beginning today, there are still more than eighty days of good growing weather left for the production and preservation of food in home gardens.

With the aid of a modern seed catalogue, giving the days required for the maturity of each kind of vegetable, we may list crops that one may still grow with an assurance of harvest this year. These dates have, incidentally, been tested by the writer and are accurate. Most of them represent peak of production rather than first picking, as witness a snap bean harvested by the writer in forty-two days in an unfavorable season when fifty days was given as maturity time.

Beans of the snap variety, formerly called string beans before hybridizers bred the strings out of them, range in their maturity requirement from forty-eight to fifty-three days, so they may all be safely planted—not only now but for at least two to three weeks longer.

According to this catalogue, bush lima beans require from sixty-five to seventy-five days to produce a peak crop, so they, too, may be added to the list. Pole lima beans, requiring ninety days or more, should not be planted at this late date.

Pine varieties of beets range from fifty-eight to sixty-five days, which allows a margin for one or two plantings.

All the late varieties of cabbage, cauliflower and broccoli may be planted if plants are available, although it is too late to start them from seed. They should be put in the soil this week. It should be remembered that all these, if well grown, are good for quite a while after the first killing frost and may also, in the case of cabbage, be stored in various manners for winter use.

This is just the right time to sow Chinese cabbage, which, by the way, is not a cabbage at all but is welcome provender as a salad or slaw or when it is cooked slightly. Sow it thinly in the rows where it is to stand and thin out to twelve inches apart to allow room for maturing. It likes plenty of food.

Many Others
Carrots range all the way from sixty-five to seventy-five days, with some even longer, and the latter should be avoided. The fast growing types will not only mature in the time remaining but will also store of combat should be tried, but certainly the post should not be permitted to ravage the plants without stern control measures.

well for winter or they may be canned. Celery plants, if available, will make it with ease, but they cannot be started from seed.

Take notice that carrots, celery and beets do not like acid soil.

Corn in the early maturing varieties will come through, although one should stick to some of the fast maturing hybrids and the midget varieties and stay away from varieties like Stowels Evergreen, which takes too long to mature.

Cucumbers are a cinch with their sixty days or so to mature, although they should be kept well dusted or sprayed, well watered and well fed for fine growth and production.

MARSHALL PLAN ALREADY SHOWS GOOD RETURNS

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

The cold war between Soviet Russia and the Democracies had its genesis in ideology—aggressive Communism bent on world conquest—but its outcome is going to be determined by economic factors.

Of course military power will play an important part, but that is based on economic well-being. As for ideology, man is given to thinking with his stomach. His ideological leanings are likely to be decisively influenced by the amount of food (plus a corresponding allotment of other necessities) available for his family.

That is the significance of the Marshall Plan, and it dominates the whole crisis. The task of the Democracies is to hold the present "military front" through Central Europe to give the Marshall Plan time to put Western Europe on its feet economically.

Many Obstacles

Actually the three major Democracies in Germany—America, Britain and France—haven't anything like as great military strength in the field as has Russia. However, the potential striking-power which the Democracies could develop is greater than that which the Soviet could produce in the same length of time. So we have a "cold" war instead of a "hot" one.

The task of the Democracies, therefore, is to hold along the so-called Stettin-Adriatic "battle-line" across Europe while the Marshall Plan does its job. That will restore the ability of the Democracies to provide themselves with the military power for defense against armed aggression. America plans on performing this hat-trick in four years so that she can withdraw from Europe by 1952. She figures that by then not only will the European Democracies be well on their way to normalcy but that this increasing prosperity will have its reflection in a great improvement in Uncle Sam's foreign trade and cost of living.

There are many obstacles to be overcome. Among these is the very natural fear in Paris that the rebirth of a strong Germany will again endanger France. One can have a sympathetic understanding of that feeling, since Germany made war three times on France in a little more than two generations. However, safeguards for France will have to be worked out, since there is no question that an economically strong Germany is essential to European recovery.

Littlestown

Littlestown—The July meeting of the Littlestown borough council will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in the office of the secretary, Roger J. Keefe, North Queen street.

Ernest W. Dunbar, district governor of the 181st Rotary district, will make his official visitation to the Littlestown Rotary club, Tuesday at 6:15 p. m. in Schottie's banquet hall.

Mason and Dixon Memorial Post No. 6954, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will hold their regular semi-monthly meeting Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the post home, West King street.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dyer Sheely results. One of the chief early benefits has been a psychological lift among the peoples of the Democracies.

We have a very good illustration of this in the firm manner in which the Italian government under Premier De Gasperi has handled the big and revolutionary Communist party of that country. The Communist motion of no confidence in the government, presented in the Senate after the attempted assassination of the Red leader, Palmire Togliatti, was soundly defeated last Thursday.

The democratic elements in Italy have their chins up. That is increasingly true in other Western European countries. And quite as much to the point, all this is having its effect in Eastern Europe where there is increasing resistance being shown against Soviet domination.

Another Snag

Another snag has been struck in Western Germany itself. The German leaders dislike the American-British-French idea of forming a government for the three zones occupied by America, France and Britain. Still the Allies have been going ahead with the prospect, since the consensus of their economic experts is that there must be a co-ordination of the three areas in order to achieve politico-economic strength.

Already the Marshall Plan—officially christened "the European Recovery Program"—is showing good returned from a week's wedding trip to Colonial Beach, Virginia, and have gone to house-keeping in their newly furnished apartment at the home of Mrs. Sheely's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clinton G. Martin, Littlestown R. 2. Mrs. Sheely before her marriage in Christ Reformed church on July 17, was the former Isabelle Louise Martin.

Clarence O. Bankert and his daughter, Miss Marion Bankert, Prince street, spent Thursday and Friday in Baltimore due to the death and funeral of the former's brother-in-law, Col. Paul K. Klaesius. Mr. Klaesius was a veteran of both wars, serving as a second lieutenant in World War I and as a colonel in World War II. He was buried Friday in the National cemetery, Baltimore.

Mrs. Thomas O. Weaver, Lumber street; her son, P. Emory, South Queen street; and Miss Florence V. Sell, East King street, spent Saturday evening in York visiting Mr. and Mrs. G. Irvin Reindollar. Mrs. Reindollar is a sister of Mrs. Weaver and Miss Sell.

Mrs. Verdie Strain, North Queen street, left today for Bedford Springs, Pa., after which she will go to the Pocono mountains and from there to Atlantic City, N. J. She was accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Jean R. Bennett, Philadelphia. They will be gone about two weeks.

Mrs. Wilbur Mackley, East King street, returned home Sunday evening from Devon, Pa., where she spent several days with Mrs. A. H. Repstha, who was the former Alda E. Crouse of town. Mrs. Repstha and Mrs. Mackley were classmates in the class of 1928, West Philadelphia Hospital for women. A reunion of this class was held Saturday and Sunday in the Repstha home.

Mrs. Walter Peck, Peoria, Ill., and Miss Mary and Miss Susan Slane, Princeville, Ill., who are spending some time visiting relatives in this vicinity were entertained Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Wherley, East King street.

Mrs. Mildred Davidson, St. Petersburg, Fla., was a guest of Miss Kathryn Shriver, East King street, this past week. During her stay in Littlestown she visited a number of her mother's relatives.

Tech. Sgt. Ernest W. Sentez of the U. S. Air Force, stationed at Langley Field, Va., spent the week-end with his wife and family, West King street.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Hornberger, son, Richard, and daughter, Jean, South Bend, Ind., are spending ten days' vacation with Mrs. Hornberger's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hornberger, East King street.

C. W. Harner, East King street, and with Mr. Hornberger's mother, Mrs. Josephine Hornberger, West King street. Mrs. Hornberger was the former Jane Harner. Mr. Hornberger is employed with the United States Rubber company at South Bend.

Week-end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Snyder, Park avenue, were Mr. and Mrs. John Long of Westminster. Sunday visitors at the Snyder home included Luther Snyder and Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Snyder and family of Westminster and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Snyder of Baltimore.

Among the Japanese, eel meat has been regarded as a tonic against summer lassitude.

CAMP BUS UPSETS

York, Pa., July 26 (AP)—A YWCA camp bus carrying 20 girls upset near here late yesterday and slightly injured 14 of its occupants. The bus, converted from an ambulance, was en route to York when it skidded on the York road near Newberrytown, careened across the road and overturned.

BLASTS GOP

Give your car this DOUBLE PROTECTION

Stop trouble before it starts — with Sunoco A to Z Lubrication

It's tailor-made for your car—special lubricants, charts and equipment make sure the right lubricant reaches every friction point.

Costs no more than an old-fashioned "grease job"—but does much more!

Get Sunoco A to Z Lubrication every 1000 miles—your car will run better and last longer.

Beat midsummer heat — with fresh Sunoco Motor Oil

Drain and change now to one of Sunoco's two great motor oils . . . engineered to fit the way you drive.

Sunoco Mercury-Made Oil is for average driving, Sunoco Dynalube for hard, long distance driving.

They're both reinforced to resist summer heat. Give your engine fresh life with fresh Sunoco oil!
